- Arts and culture can be found all the way from the Panhandle to the Keys. - Continue east to Quincy, where arts and culture are entwined with a small-town way of life. Visit the ArtZone at Gadsden Arts Center and Museum to get creative at a drop-in art studio for visitors of all ages.
- Over in Jacksonville, Cathedral Arts Project unleashes the creative power of young people by partnering with 25 schools and educational sites to bring arts education to underserved school-aged children.
- Next, take yourself to Gainesville, home of the University of Florida Center for Arts in Medicine. The Center develops and effects interdisciplinary research studies and educational curricula on all levels and serves as a national model for the arts in medicine research, education and training.
- Heading South to Tampa, Straz Salutes is a program offering opportunities for veterans and their families to connect with the arts at the David A. Straz, Jr. Center for the Performing Arts
- Follow the coast to Sarasota, where you can soar through the air while learning the flying trapeze at Circus Arts Conservatory. If you’re more comfortable on the ground, you can enjoy one of their many performances in a one-ring European-style big top, the unique arena facility or an intimate historic theater.
- Miami is one of the epicenters of the art world. Bring a blanket and a picnic to the New World Symphony’s WALLCAST® concert series to enjoy events shown on the 7,000-square-foot projection wall of the fabulous New World Center. The Pérez Art Museum highlight Miami’s diverse community and pivotal geographic location at the crossroads of the Americas.
