THE OHIO ARTS COUNCIL—was created in 1965 to foster and encourage the development of the arts and assist the preservation of Ohio’s cultural heritage. With funds from the Ohio Legislature and the National Endowment for the Arts, the OAC provides financial assistance to artists and arts organizations. The Council accomplishes this charge in two primary methods; first, through the various grant funding programs that the Council operates to provide support to artists and to make arts activities available to a broad segment of Ohio’s public; and secondly, by providing services that help to enhance the growth of the arts.

THE ARTS ARE EVERYWHERE!

- Visit Hicksville in Defiance County to see a performance at the 136-year-old Huber Opera House.
- February can be chilly in Ohio, but not at Brite Winter in Cleveland, where locals and visitors emerge from their hibernation and embrace the cold through art, music, and food.
- Public art transforms communities, as seen in the parachute cloth mural in Ashtabula that celebrates the town’s tranquil lakeside setting.
- During Appalachian Music Week, Stuart’s Opera House in Nelsonville holds free events and instrument workshops, educating residents and tourists about the rich heritage of song and storytelling in Appalachia.
- The Dairy Barn Arts Center in Athens no longer houses herds of cows, but instead hosts Quilt National, an exhibition that has established the Dairy Barn’s international reputation for excellence.
- Cincinnati has just unveiled the new Otto M. Budig Theatre, home to the Cincinnati Shakespeare Company—one of the first five companies in the nation to perform all of the Bard’s works.
- Proudly calling Dayton home for 50 years, the Dayton Contemporary Dance Company is the oldest modern dance company in Ohio, travelling the world to share dance on the global stage and demonstrate its commitment to culturally diverse artistic expression.
- Located on the University of Findlay’s campus, the Mazza Museum in Findlay houses more than 10,500 pictures, making it one of the most diverse collections of original children’s book illustrations in the world.
